

WATER CONDITIONS

Drought continued to intensify over the past week with upticks in severe and extreme drought in the eastern half of the state. That, combined with areas of moderate drought, has 30 percent of the state in drought. Statewide reservoir storage declined for the tenth week in a row, not unusual for the summer months. Fall started last week, right?

STATEWIDE RESERVOIR STORAGE LEVELS

Despite the drought in the east, reservoirs are still relatively full. Most reservoirs in West Texas continue to struggle with below-normal levels.
